

Earth Day Festival

The Earth Day festival is sponsored by Norman Parks and Rec Department, the Environmental Services Division in the Utilities Department and the Cleveland County Conservation District. The Festival is held at Reaves Park and provides free hands-on activities, demonstrations and exhibits celebrating the importance of protecting and conserving our earth's air, water, forest, soil, wildlife, and all natural resources including a healthy human community. Over 50 government, nonprofit, and private organizations participate with fun, family friendly and imaginative ways.
